July 2006 Order Comments:

Order growth remained strong with July representing the 12th consecutive month of double-digit order growth on a trailing 3-month basis. Favorable currency exchange rates contributed approximately 3 percentage points to the increase.

Process Management orders remained strong as the global energy markets continue to drive demand for this business. The order growth was balanced across the valves, measurement, and systems businesses. Orders were also aided by the weaker dollar.

Orders for Industrial Automation remained strong driven by a favorable global capital spending environment. The growth for this segment was broad based with particular strength from the power generating alternator business.

Network Power order growth remained at high levels driven by the power systems, embedded power and inbound power businesses. Order growth moderated compared to June due to continued tougher comparisons and a deceleration in North American telecommunications orders.

Climate Technologies order growth reflected strength from the compressor business. Order growth was driven by the residential and commercial air-conditioning markets as well as the refrigeration market.

Appliance and Tools order growth remained solid driven by strength from the tools and storage businesses and solid growth from the motors business.
