February 2008 Order Comments:

Orders growth remained strong at 10 percent for the three months ended February 29, 2008. Strength in the Network Power, Process Management and Industrial Automation business segments led the growth. Favorable currency exchange rates contributed approximately 3 to 4 percentage points to the increase.

Process Management orders remained at high levels, with continued strength from the energy sectors. Strong project activity in all world areas helped drive the order growth rate.

Industrial Automation order growth was driven by strength in the power generating alternator and fluid automation businesses. The orders continued to benefit from the weaker dollar.

Order growth for Network Power remained at high levels led by strength in telecommunications and data-center computing end markets.

Climate Technologies order growth moderated for the three months ended in February. While order growth in Asia remained strong, it was offset by softness in the United States and Europe.

Order trends in the Appliance and Tools segment remained negative as order strength in the non-residential storage and professional tools businesses was more than offset by weakness in the motors, appliance components and residential storage businesses.
