Item 7.01. Regulation FD Disclosure.

The following information is furnished pursuant to Regulation FD.

Emerson GAAP Underlying Orders – 3 Month Summary (Percent change. Trailing 3-month average versus prior year.)

	October '10	November '10	December '10
Process Management	>+20	>+20	>+20
Industrial Automation	>+20	>+20	>+20
Network Power	+10 to +15	+5 to +10	0 to +5
Climate Technologies	-5 to 0	0 to +5	+5 to +10
Tools and Storage	+5 to +10	0 to +5	0 to +5
Total Emerson	+15 to +20	+15 to +20	+10 to +15

December 2010 Order Comments:

Order growth remained strong with December representing the 10th consecutive month of double-digit order growth on a trailing three-month basis. Currency exchange rates negatively impacted orders by approximately one percentage point, and total fixed rate orders remain at approximately 15 percent. Our monthly comparisons will begin to get tougher moving forward, as trailing three-month orders turned positive in January 2010.

Process Management order growth remained strong as this business continued to win large global projects, and the end markets served are in the early stages of a strong global recovery. Solid orders continued across the systems, valves and measurement businesses. Currency exchange rates negatively impacted orders by approximately two percentage points.

Order trends in the Industrial Automation segment remained strong as capital goods end markets continued to improve and are also in the early stages of a strong global capital spending recovery. Order growth was led by strength in the power generating alternator and electrical drives businesses.

Network Power order rates moderated, with growth in the uninterruptible power supply and precision cooling businesses partially offset by weakness in the embedded computing and power businesses. Order rates in Asia declined against a tough prior year comparison, as China's stimulus programs strongly supported Network Power Asia last year at this time.

Climate Technologies orders strengthened, with improvement in Asia and a modest increase in North American residential end markets, partially offset by a weaker European end market. Refrigeration end markets remained strong. We expect moderate growth for the next couple quarters.

Tools and Storage order trends remained consistent with the prior month with strength in the tools business partially offset by weakness in the residential businesses. As orders demonstrate, we do not see a very strong recovery in U.S. consumer discretionary spending.
