EMERSON TO SELL LEROY-SOMER AND CONTROL TECHNIQUES BUSINESSES TO NIDEC CORPORATION

ST. LOUIS, August 2, 2016 – Emerson (NYSE: EMR) today announced that it has agreed to sell its Leroy-Somer and Control Techniques business units to Nidec Corporation. The transaction is valued at $1.2 billion and is expected to close by December 31, 2016, subject to regulatory approvals. The proceeds will strengthen Emerson's balance sheet providing increased capacity for strategic investment.

"The Leroy-Somer and Control Techniques management teams and product leadership positions will provide a strong foundation for continued success under Nidec's ownership," said Chairman and Chief Executive Officer David N. Farr. "This announcement represents another step in our strategic repositioning to restructure and align our business amidst a challenging global macroeconomic environment. Upon completing the transaction, Emerson will be better positioned to accelerate growth and value creation over time, while Nidec will have a unique opportunity to strengthen its global motor presence and expand into drives and power generation. I am grateful to the employees of Leroy-Somer and Control Techniques for the strong and valuable performance they have provided for decades. We will work closely with Nidec to ensure a smooth transition for customers and employees."
